Penguin, Cotillion Clubs Add Members

Pearl Cullicer, Patsy Ingle, Sara Parks, Glynise Smith, and Sally Williams, among those who tried out Monday night for membership in the Penguin club, have been named members. Participants in the try-outs were judged on their ability to do the front crawl, back crawl, breast stroke, and rhythmic swimming.

Seven of about thirty girls to try out for membership in the Cotillion Club, social dancing group, have been admitted. Those girls are:

Opal Everett, Marilyn Flyrolds, Sis Donnelly, Lucille Finney, Edna Morris Darian Brown, and Allene Newberry.

WAACS ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR COLLEGE RESERVES

Miss Iva Chandler, administrative secretary of personnel at Georgia State College for Women, was named faculty advisor for prospective WAACS here at the college.

Upon the request of Mrs. Oleta Culp Hobby, director of WAAC, Dr. Guy H. Wells named Miss Chandler to the newly created position.

Indicative of the interest in women college students is the advertisement appearing on page three of this issue of the Colonnade. Miss Chandler will be glad to talk over opportunities in the WAACS for college students.

At present, there are seven colleges which have made their facilities available to the WAVES or the Women's Reserve, as they prefer to be called. Two officer's training schools are located at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and Mt. Holyoke College, Mt. Holyoke, Mass. The young women selected for training at Smith enter as Apprentice Seamen, and after one month of general indoctrination in normal naval procedure, those who pass the mental and aptitude standards are promoted to Midshipmen. They spend another two months studying and practicing naval communication procedure.

At the end of this time, successful candidates receive commissions as officers, generally as ensigns. A highly elected group of young women, whose previous training and experience make them eligible for a probationary commission even before they enter, are sent to Mt. Holyoke. After a month of special training in Naval procedure, those with an aptitude for Navy life and discipline are given a permanent commission, generally as lieutenants (j.g.).

The enlisted personnel, who are graduated petty officers, are trained at the other five colleges. At the Naval training school at Madison, Wisconsin, women are trained as radio operators; at Indiana university, Bloomington, Indiana, they are given special instruction in store-keeping and supplies; at Oklahoma A&M college, Stillwater, Oklahoma, and now at GSCW, they will graduate as Yeomen, or third class petty officers for detail to office positions; at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, Iowa, they are given special Naval Training course and then sent to one of the other four schools, depending on their skill or aptitude.

Dr. J. L. Beeson Dies After Fifty Years Service at GSCW

Funeral Services Held Wednesday A.M. For President Emeritus Of GSCW

Funeral services for Dr. Jasper Luther Beeson, president emeritus of GSCW, and nationally known educator, were held Wednesday at eleven o'clock. Dr. Beeson died Monday morning following a heart attack.

Rites were conducted from the First Presbyterian church of Hines, and Col. J. H. Jenkins, president of Georgia Military College.

Born at Keener, Ala., Dr. Beeson was the son of Capt. W. B. Beeson and Mary Sibert Beeson. He received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Alabama, and later was awarded his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins. He also received his LL.D. from the University of Alabama.

After being connected with the University of Alabama, the Louisiana Experiment Station, and the Louisiana School of Sugar, Dr. Beeson became professor of chemistry at GSCW in 1897. He was later made vice-president of the school, and served as president from 1927 to 1934, after which he became president emeritus.

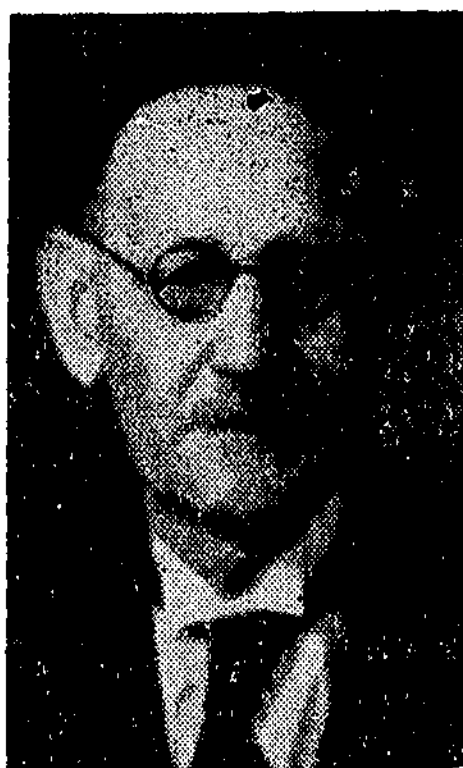

Known by thousands of Georgia women whom he taught at GSCW, Dr. Beeson was second only to Miss Alice Napier in years of service at the college.

Beeson Hall, one of the newer dormitories was named in his honor.

Many national honors were bestowed upon the educator. He was a fellow AAAS, a corresponding member of two French educational bodies, and a member of the American Chemical Society. He was the author of several scientific articles and deviser of scientific apparatus.

Dr. Beeson was also a member of the board of directors of the Merchants and Farmers Bank.

Dr. Beeson is survived by his wife, the former Miss Leola Selman; a daughter, Mrs. Sam Wright, Staunton, Va.; three brothers, Dr. M. A. Beeson, Stillwater Okla.; Dr. J. W. Beeson, Atlanta; and Prof. W. J. Beeson, Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Nena O'Gwynne, Mobile, Ala.; and Mrs. E. T. Bruce, Bruceville, Texas.

DR. J. L. BEESON

which he was an active member and an Elder. Dr. R. W. Oakley, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by Dr. Albert Grady Harris, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Macon, and a former pastor of the Milledgeville church.

Deacons of the church served as active pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers were members of the faculty at GSCW, the Baldwin County Board of Education, directors of the Merchants and Farmers Bank, Judge E. R.

Victory Dress Clinic Conducted

Do you anticipate any difficulty making your clothing budget stretch to meet your needs for the duration?

Have you had trouble finding ready-to-wear during this fall?

Can you identify, use and care for the substitute materials you must buy?

Do you have any old clothes which need a "new face"?

If you are meeting any of these problems for yourself or members of your family, why not avail yourself of the GSCW Clothing Information Service in helping you solve them.

The Time: Any time between 3 and 6 Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

The Place: Room 2, Chappell Hall.

The Supervisor or Helper: A member of the clothing staff of the college.

Type of Service: Whatever is desired by individuals to help them with their problems, such as consumer buying, designing, construction, fitting, methods of care, and related problems.

FAVORITE PICTURES

The favorite pictures, according to the latest tabulation, in the Modern Art Exhibit, are "Nor 'Easter," by Homer, "Little Margot Bernard," by Renaud, and "Woman with Pearl Ring," by Carot.

This exhibit, sponsored by College Government, with the assistance of the art department, ended today. It was presented in the library.

Skinner Likes Radio Work, Cares Little for Movies

By LEILA CALHOUN and SHIRLEY POOLE

"You have a fine school; I remember GSCW very pleasantly, even though my last appearance here was in 1937." So stated Cornelia Otis Skinner when she was interviewed before her performance here Thursday night.

Miss Skinner answered a much asked question when she said that all the incidents in her newest book, best-seller, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," are absolutely true. She also revealed that at present she is working on a new book, as yet unnamed, which will be more serious than any she has yet done.

Basking in the sun, doing nothing, would be Miss Skinner's idea of a perfect existence. She enjoys radio work very much, however; especially does she enjoy her frequent appearances on "Information, Please."

Miss Skinner has never done Shakespeare on the professional stage, but one of her first appearances was in Macbeth, in which she played Lady Macbeth to Ann Harding's Macduff, while they were in school together at Byrn Mawr.

She has appeared on the screen only in "Information, Please" shorts. Miss Skinner does not like Hollywood, has no favorite actors, and seldom goes to the movies. Helen Hayes, in Miss Skinner's estimation, is America's greatest actress.

Miss Skinner appeared at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala., on Wednesday night, and at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, in Greensboro, on Friday night.

Spectrum Conducts Snap-Shot Contest

The Spectrum will sponsor a snap-shot contest to select the best two snap-shots, related to campus, faculty or students. All pictures must be submitted on or before February 20th. The best snap-shots will be published in the 1942-43 year books.

"SEE HERE PRIVATE HARGROVE" IS INTIMATE PICTURE OF ARMY LIFE

By NELLE ELLIS

Through the eyes of Private Hargrove, ASN 34116620, the reader may view the regular life of the United States, with its vast training program designed to develop surer and stronger fighting forces.

Marian Hargrove, assistant editor of the Charlotte News and corresponding jack-of-all-trades, was inducted into military service and stationed at Fort Bragg, in response to letter from Washington, which began: "The President of the United States to Marian Hargrove. Greeting..." Army life presented a series of daily problems for Private Hargrove. The shoes which were issued him a size and a half too large, the field pack which was his burden on twenty mile hikes, the non-coms whom he insisted upon saluting continually, and K.P. duty three times in one week are but a few of the trying experiences which molded him into a first class soldier. All of them are related in the some two hundred pages of See Here, Private Hargrove.

The author has used a language all his own. His lines are highly humorous, sometimes dialectal, and flavored with all the color and zest of spirited American youth. His characters are typical American doughboys from all walks of life and include his fellow privates, non-coms, and the uniformed officers who are Uncle Sam's right arm.

See Here, Private Hargrove is genuinely delightful, containing that mixture of humor and sentiment typical of red-blooded Americans everywhere. The author's individualistic approach and the timeliness of the book, have made it an American best-seller.

Floor Leaders Plan Instigated

A new plan has been introduced this year in the dormitories—one that will bring each one in closer contact with the CGA and make the girls themselves feel that they are a part of it. The purpose of this system is to help in discovering hidden talents among the students who have not previously had an opportunity to use those talents. In order for this to work successfully there is one floor leader for every eight to twelve students.

These leaders have been selected by the particular groups that they represent. Personal qualities, necessary for leadership, were considered.

The floor leaders, who assume leadership and responsibility for the welfare of the house, act as lay leaders without disciplinary authority. It is the duty of these students to cooperate with CGA in giving publicity to their activities and in governing the groups' active support of all of program. They also cooperate with the dormitory councils.

MODERN DANCE TRY-OUTS

The Modern Dance club will hold tryouts Monday night at 7:15 in the gymnasium. This is the second night of tryouts for the dance club which is anxious to have new members. All students who have had one quarter of modern dancing or are taking modern dancing at present are eligible for membership.

INTRAMURALS

Basketball and badminton intramurals are underway, but more players are needed. Basketball games are held Monday and Wednesday afternoons at 4:45, and badminton on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at the same time. Students who do not know how to play these games receive instruction.

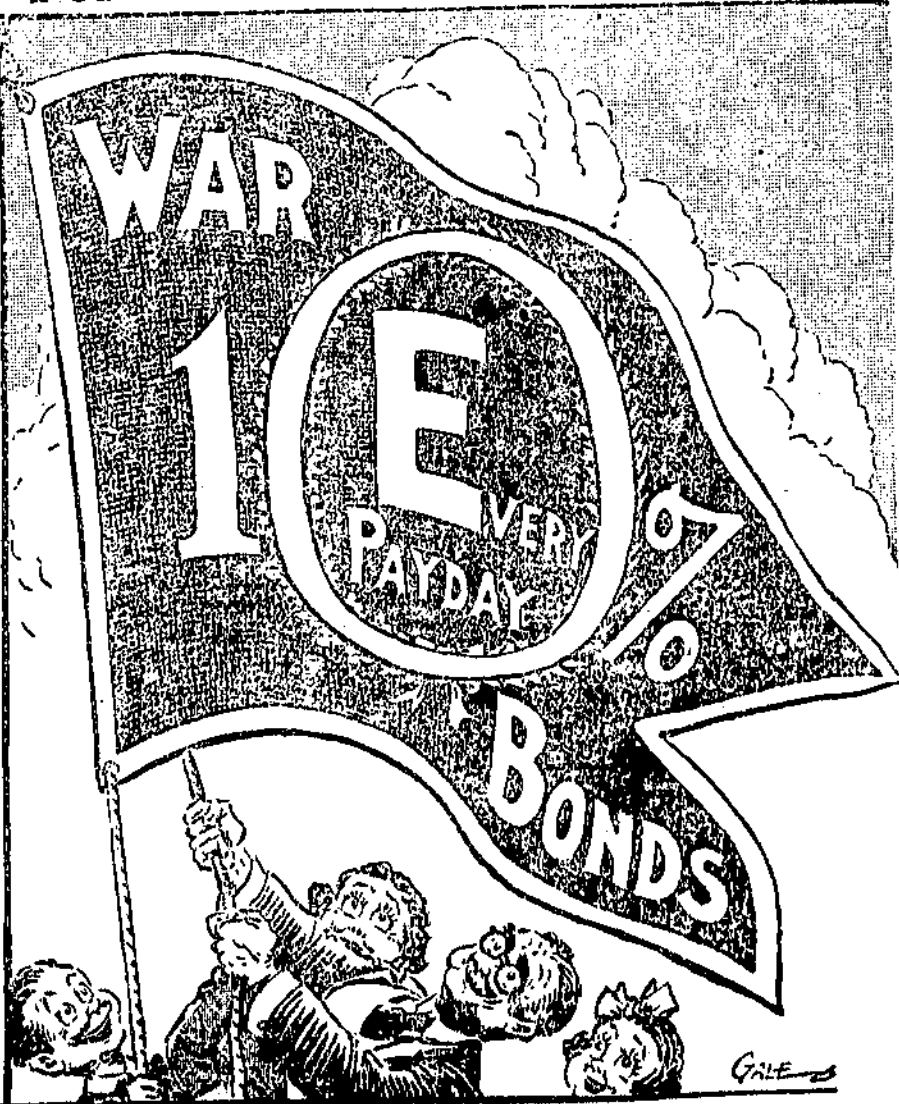

PRESENT PROGRAM

Four All-gro club members presented a program of voice, piano, and speech selections Monday night. These students were Betty Bell, piano; Martha Wright, and Betty Lee Anderson, speech; and Mary Hancock, voice.

SCHEDULE FOR SWIMMING

Beginning this week, the swimming pool will be open to all students three afternoons, each week. The schedule is Monday and Wednesday, 4:45 to 5:45, and Saturday, 3:45 to 5:45. A qualified lifeguard will be on duty at all times. Wynelle Shadburn is manager of swimming for this quarter.

"HIT THE DECK" ADVICE GIVEN AT SOPH DANCE

"Hit the Deck" was the advice given those who attended the sophomore dance in the gymnasium last Saturday night, and hit the deck they did. Swinging and swaying to the music of the Clemson Jugaleers were about two hundred sophomores and their dates. The windows and general decorations in the gymnasium created a nautical atmosphere.

Faye Hancock, sophomore class president, wore a white jacketed dress accented with golden flowers. Evelyn Echols wore white jersey and perched a Juliet cap on her head.

The black taffeta of Elizabeth Andrews' skirt was scented by an aqua waft.

A white net skirt frothed from Tiny Wade's white spangled basque.

Then Laura Jean Trappnell attended in a pink net cloud. And Henri Floyd in a sunset yellow creation. Elizabeth Knowles wore a black bodice with a bright striped skirt.

The headout was to Anchors Aweigh and There Are Such Things. Dot Tregone sang and Ann Cook, Coolie, and Don Fiste, Don the Dude, gave a jitterbug demonstration.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Dr. and Mrs. Guy Wells entertained members of the Student-Faculty Relations committee and Student Council at a dinner Tuesday evening. This is a quarterly meeting, which is held at the Executive Mansion.

Sunrise On The Village Square; Nostalgia Runs Rampant

By JANE HOLLAND
BONG! BONG!

Then, silence and calm reign as does a monarch over his voiceless people. The few, unshaded street lights mix with the stars which shine all the more brightly because of the deep darkness. The trees hang from the sky as an unkempt beard hangs from a beggar's chin. The show windows of the stores reflect the figure of a single passer-by.

The gray square, marked with tire and shoe tracks, stretches into acres. A night hawk with his prey screeches to his mate. In the distance, dogs bark, as if debating some vital question of their world. The buildings, like ghosts gather around the monument.

A truck, loaded with clanking milk cans, disturbing a stray cat's slumber. He pads off, half-starved, seeking food to satisfy his appetite.

The town drunkard staggers down the street and stons to look in the store windows. The plates and refrigerators in the hardware store transformed into figures ready to pounce upon him. He turns to run, stumbles, then continues his way insecurely toward home.

A street cleaner hums an original tune and clanks his brooms and pails. A melancholy rhythm arises from his dirty monotonous job. He picks up a cigarette duck, lights it, and finishes his work in time for the four o'clock shift at the saw mill.

A dog, with a chicken between his teeth, limps along the street and crouches down an alley to devour his feast.

And the faithful clocks moans, "BONG! BONG! BONG! BONG! BONG!"

G.M.C. Students Complete Training

Athens, Ga.—Having completed three months of physical conditioning and pre-flight training at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School here, two former students of Georgia Military College, at Milledgeville, have been transferred to Naval Air Stations for primary flight training.

They are Richard H. Brown, Jr., Birmingham, who goes to Kansas City, Kas.; and Robert Warren Baker, Atlanta, who has been ordered to Dallas, Texas. Since entering the Navy pre-flight school here three months ago, each cadet has had ground work in military and academic subjects, and has undergone a rigorous physical conditioning program which is designed to make Uncle Sam's Naval aviators the fittest and best trained in the world.

ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Aeolian Guild has elected the following officers to fill vacancies:

Eleanor Douglas, vice president; Roslyn Bynum, secretary; Helen Hall, news editor; Grace Middlebrooks, sophomore class representative; and Mary Dudley, junior class representative.

Your Army has scores of jobs in the WAAC for alert college women... jobs vital to the war... jobs that will train you for interesting new careers in the post-war world. And here is good news indeed — you may enroll now in the fast-growing WAAC and be placed on inactive duty until the school year ends. Then you will be subject to call for duty with this splendid women's corps and be launched upon an adventure such as no previous generation has known.

New horizons... new places and people... interesting, practical experience with good pay... and, above all, a real opportunity to help your country by doing essential military work for the U. S. Army that frees a soldier for combat duty. These are among many reasons why thousands of American women are responding to the Army's need.

You will receive valuable training which may fit you for many of the new careers which are opening to women, and full Army pay while doing so. And by joining now you will have excellent chances for quick advancement for, as the WAAC expands, many more officers are needed. Every member—regardless of race, color or creed—has equal opportunity and is encouraged to compete for selection to Officer Candidate School. If qualified, you may obtain a commission in 12 weeks after beginning basic training.

Go to your WAAC Faculty Adviser for further information on the list of openings, pay, and promotions. Or inquire at any U. S. Army Recruiting and Induction Station.

Dr. Jasper Luther Beeson

Our college mourns the death of one of its beloved teachers. This quiet, kindly person who had been a part of the atmosphere of GSCW for nearly fifty years.

The death of Dr. J. L. Beeson, president emeritus, came as a shocking blow to students and faculty alike Monday morning. His was a well-known and revered personality remembered for his dry wit, subtle humor, and ingratiating smile, and friendly word of greeting.

Thousands of young women whom Dr. Beeson had taught respected him for his great contributions in the field of education. Students who had come under his guiding hand are today bearing evidence of the fine ideal and the knowledge he had instilled in their minds during their stay at GSCW.

The passing of Dr. Beeson is a distinct loss to the entire state, but his great works and influence will continue to live through the accomplishments of those he taught.

Peace Plan

Public opinion, backed by strong men behind a conference table and not merely idealists and dreamers, will mold the peace after this war, Dr. Henry J. Bruman, assistant professor of geography at Pennsylvania State college, declares in outlining a four-point peace plan.

Dr. Bruman believes we must start now to think about terms on which peace can be maintained, and he lists the following four steps for a lasting peace:

1. A program of re-education and indoctrination for democracy in the conquered countries. To do this will probably take a lifetime gradually placing into positions of power youth who have been taught the principles of freedom and democracy.
2. Military occupation of Germany, Italy, and possibly Hungary with maintenance of an army of occupation in these countries for at least 8 to 10 years, and perhaps a whole generation during the re-education process.
3. Compulsory military training in the United States for every male citizen to provide a large standing army.
4. Generous boundary allotments to Germany and Japan, and equally generous allotments of sources of adequate war materials. Germany should be given Austria and the Sudeten Germans.

"I fervently hope the powers in Russia and the English-speaking people will be able to arrive at a mutually satisfactory agreement regarding the nature of the peace," Dr. Bruman concludes. "If such harmony does not come about, we shall have lost the peace."

WIT'S END

We Don't Sail The Ocean Blue

By JEWELL WILLIE

Flash—Lake Laurel has WAVES!! The campus has square corners!

Everybody else has written about the NNS GSCW; so I feel rather outmoded to be so late in saying anything about our Navy visitors. Huh, two, three, four, the early shower of officers march around imaginary brick walls which run along the edge of all the campus sidewalks. Huh, two, three, four, they put our collegiate slump to shame.

The blue streak, now minute but soon to be tremendous, makes us all stand a little straighter....look around, rather down at rather bedraggled skirts and meal-bag sweaters....socks with mid-term slumps and cross ventilation....hound's ears saddles with the tongues sanging to the left or to the right....to naturally curly collars....and....well....we know what else. We die, temporarily, of mental indigestion wondering how in the world they can manage such perfect grooming in just twenty-four hours each day. We have to spend two weeks getting things ready to wear on a one day shopping trip.

Another thing....How do they manage that straight as an arrow skirt line when all we can get around to is a semi-rainbow effect in a hem?

One last query....How can they be WAVES and yet avoid water spotting? Guess there's just one thing to do and that is to "Join the Navy to see the girls." (We can't be certain, but all of this may be a military secret.)

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By JOAN DEWITT

Congress This Week

One baffling question stood out above all the rest on Capitol Hill Tuesday. It was the question of raising an additional $16,000,000,000. Senator Walter F. George (Democrat, Georgia) suggested the "pay as you go" tax as the simplest solution.

A special Senate committee informed Congress that the petroleum outlook is gloomy. Improved methods of fuel oil and gasoline rationing must be set into use.

The Russian Front

Russians have retaken twenty-two towns along the Don river, in their latest series of attacks. The rush of the Red army swept aside more than one hundred German tanks. Russian aviators have been credited with sinking a 5000-ton German transport in an Axis port.

Pleasure Driving

Thoroughfares that have been throbbing with traffic have become strangely quiet. Pleasure driving has been banned in the Eastern states. Police are helping the OPA by reporting any violations of the new law.

Japanese Planes Downed

Allied airmen boasted that 138 Japanese planes were shot down or crippled in four days of action as they pursued a convoy fleeing from New Guinea. The only discordant note in the Allied successes was the news that Brig. Gen. Kenneth Walker failed to return from an aerial attack on Rabaul when he led a formation of Flying Fortresses which damaged 50,000 tons of enemy shipping and shot down nine Japanese fighters.

A Young Woman's War

Fundamentally, this is a young man's war. But in many important ways this is also a young woman's war: Young women in uniform and young women in overalls; young women in field and factory, in office and hospital.

You as young college women have a definite part to play in this war crisis. For even in the classroom, today's Total War is not merely academic. It is actual.

Young women students, everywhere, are keenly aware of the facts of the war; they must also be alert to the way in which those facts affect them as women and as students. They must recognize the unpleasant fact that a totalitarian triumph would destroy their very freedom to attend the college of their choice.

They have a tremendous stake in the war; for if we were to lose it, they would lose their future, and youth deeply deserves a future. They also have a service to perform and they are performing it with their characteristic enthusiasm and determination. I know that for my own daughter, a college sophomore, tells me of the many war services her classmates are rendering.

One thing you can all do is to buy War Bonds and Stamps. Perhaps you cannot invest vast sums of money. But you can invest an appropriate share of all you receive or earn. And as you invest this money you will also be investing your own sacrifice and self-respect. In a practical and patriotic way, you will be uniting scholarship and citizenship. You will also be investing in the future. Youth has always depended on the future. Today the future depends on Youth.
